1. THE BIG IDEA

Speak Up Gen is a youth-driven initiative. As we grow across India, we need a clear way to organise people — without becoming complicated or bureaucratic.

Think of the organisation like a tree:

- The roots and trunk keep everyone connected under one national identity.
- Branches reach into states and cities.
- Leaves are the local teams where real activity happens.

Every member belongs to a local team. Every local team sits under a city. Every city sits under a state. All states sit under Speak Up Gen National.

2. THE FOUR LEVELS

We use four clear levels. Each level has a simple job.

01

National

The whole of Speak Up Gen. Sets direction, brand, and overall standards. Oversees every state.

02

State

One state chapter (for example Maharashtra or Rajasthan). Supports cities and keeps activity healthy across the state.

03

City

A city chapter (for example Mumbai or Jaipur). Helps form and support local teams nearby.

04

Local team (Unit)

Where members actually meet, plan, and take action. This is the home base for every volunteer.

3. LOCAL TEAMS ARE FLEXIBLE

A local team does not have to be a college campus. Speak Up Gen welcomes many kinds of teams under a city — as long as they share our purpose.

Examples of local teams:

College / campus team
Students organising from a college or university

Community team
Young people from a neighbourhood or locality

Workplace team
Young professionals acting together at work

Club or interest group
A club focused on environment, arts, awareness, etc.

Partner team
A friendly group collaborating under Speak Up Gen

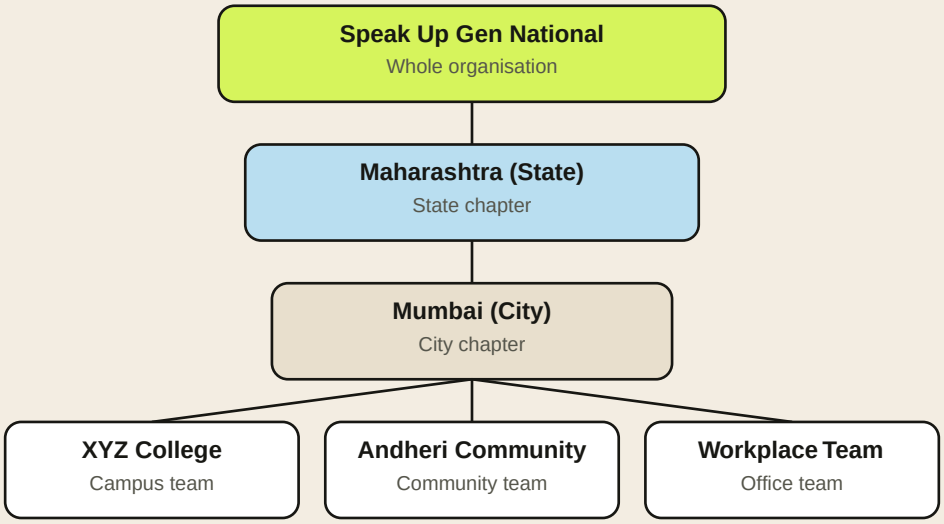
Custom team
Any other genuine youth team that fits our mission

Important

New team types can be added later without redesigning the whole organisation. The structure stays the same — only the labels of local teams stay flexible.

4. A SIMPLE PICTURE

Here is one example of how the tree might look in real life:



5. HOW SOMEONE JOINS

Anyone who wants to be part of Speak Up Gen can apply. The process is designed to feel open — and still organised.

1 Apply
The person fills a simple application: who they are, where they are, which local team they want to join, and why they care.

2 Local review
The application goes to the local team lead — the people who know that team best.

3 Approve or decline
The local lead accepts or declines. Higher leadership does not need to approve every single member.

4 Welcome + ID card
If accepted, the person becomes an official member and can receive a Speak Up Gen member ID card.

Who decides?
Local leads approve their own applicants. This keeps decisions close to the ground, faster, and fairer — while national and state leaders still guide the bigger picture.

6. MEMBER ID CARDS

Every approved member can get an official Speak Up Gen ID card. This is not just a fancy badge — it creates trust and identity.

An ID card typically shows:

- Member’s name and photo
- Unique member ID number
- Local team, city, and state
- Role (for example Member or Team Lead)
- A QR code so anyone can quickly check if the card is genuine

Cards can be downloaded digitally and printed when needed — useful for events, drives, partnerships, and campus recognition.

7. WHO DOES WHAT

Titles can grow with the organisation. The responsibilities below are the practical ones that matter day to day.

ROLE	FOCUS
National leadership	Vision, brand, standards, major decisions, support for states
State lead	Grow and support cities in the state; keep quality consistent
City lead	Help form local teams; support unit leads; keep city activity alive
Local team lead	Approve members, run team activity, issue / request ID cards
Member	Show up, take part, represent Speak Up Gen with care

8. WHY THIS STRUCTURE HELPS

- Clarity — everyone knows where they belong.
- Scale — we can grow city by city without losing control.
- Flexibility — local teams are not locked to colleges only.
- Speed — local leads approve members without national bottlenecks.
- Trust — ID cards make membership real and verifiable.
- Unity — one Speak Up Gen identity, from national leadership to the newest volunteer.

9. CLOSING NOTE

This document explains the organisation design in plain language. The technology that powers applications, approvals, and ID cards will follow this same structure — so what leaders understand on paper is what the system will support in practice.

If anything needs adjusting — for example team types, approval rules, or ID card details — it is easier to refine now, before building begins.
